Charlotte Keeley, JD, CFLS; Jacqueline Singer, PhD

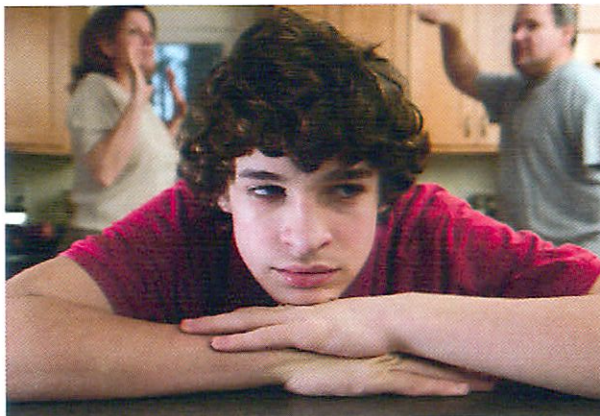

12:30 - 12:45 p.m. Break

12:45 - 2:45 p.m. Attachment Wars in Family Court
Part I

Attachment in young children and the ways to protect and enhance this important relationship with parents after a separation is a controversial and troubled area of debate. Additionally, there are questions about the best schedules for older children/adolescents. Recent research points in varying directions. This workshop will describe the differences, the evidence and current (imperfect) knowledge about parenting plans, overnights, and shared parenting for infants, toddlers and older children

Nancy Oleson, PhD

2:45 - 3:00 p.m. Break

3:00 - 5:00 p.m. Attachment Wars in Family Court
Part II

This workshop continues with participants reading and evaluating research and its relevance to their own cases; learning the elements of classical attachment theory and other ways of looking at parent-child relationships; and examining the pros and cons of proposed parenting plans for infants, young children, older children and adolescents.
